

To display our content in the webpage Django application has a method provided `HttpResponse()` which takes our input in a string format displays it by parsing it in html page.

`render()` helps in loading our template(static page) provided in our arguments with the context (dictionary data which is dynamic) provided which in turns returns a `HttpResponse()` object and this `HttpRepsonse()` object parses our content in html page.